RE: Chris Cox Recommendation

To whom it may concern,

Chris Cox is a great co-worker, a creative problem solver and an excellent all-around person who brings tremendous talent and enthusiasm to the team. I worked with Chris, either as his direct supervisor or indirect supervisor, at Cardtronics for nearly seven years. Undeniably, Chris improved our team, our web properties and our culture throughout his tenure.

What I like best about Chris is his infectious enthusiasm and willingness to go the extra mile. He had fans throughout the company, from IT to HR. There was never a project too small, too large or too "out there" for Chris to take on, and he tackled every project with the same can-do attitude and willingness to find a way, even when it had nothing to do with his normal day job.

Chris's knowledge of servers, web systems, programming, databases, HTML and so much more is sorely missed at Cardtronics and on our team, and in fact we have brought Chris back as we have been able to on a contract basis. Chris is a wealth of knowledge and expertise, but always willing to learn. If not for mandatory staffing reductions due to COVID-19 that impacted every department, Chris would continue to be a valued part of my team.

I am happy to provide a hearty recommendation for Chris. He is a great team member and a great friend, and it was my honor to work with him for the time we had together.

Sincerely,

Joel Antonini
